

One of the things that opponents to Morse code fail to realize is that Morse code teaches the fundamentals of digital communication. We are in a world of digital communication and amateur radio operators are using digital equipment more and more. They need to understand how it works. Therefore, I would suggest keeping the five word per minute requirement.

Your consideration of this comment would be greatly appreciated.

In Him
Bill Ryan
K3RDX